Dear Mr. Greggs:

I would like to commend you for the program which the Cultural Workshop and Gallery, Inc. has operated since 1970. This exceptional program has been offering cultural arts programs to the Far Northeast Community which has involved, according to its own estimate, over 1,000 community participants.

Such efforts should not be ignored nor unsupported; I firmly endorse the establishment of a cultural community arts center to provide fine, performing and cultural arts training for youth, ages 10-25. The fact that you have established a gallery in the community is a magnificant accomplishment for which you should be praised.

If I can be of assistance in the future, do not hesitate to call upon this office. I wish you success in your efforts to secure foundation grant support. Please keep me informed of the ongoing accomplishments of your program.

Mr. Warren D. Landis
Acting Administrator
Wage and Hour Division
Department of Labor
Washington, D.C. 20210

Dear Mr. Landis:

I have been contacted by Mrs. H. Greenwood Allen of Greenwood's Transfer and Storage, Incorporated concerning possible disbarment of that firm from bidding on Government contracts by the Department of Labor.

According to Mrs. Allen the case was heard by an Administrative Law Judge after the company had paid to the Department of Labor the full amount of such fringe benefits as the Department had computed. However, it was the company's position that such sums had properly been included in the wages of employees. The Administrative Law Judge found that a substantial portion of the non-payment was the result of a mistake of law and that on this basis the company should be relieved from the penalty of disbarment; however, as to certain of the mistakes made, the Administrative Law Judge found that officers of the company were "non-culpably negligent" and that the Administrator should not relieve the company from the penalty of disbarment.

The case is now pending before the Acting Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor.

The company has been doing business with the Department of Labor for 15 to 20 years and is certified by the Small Business Administration as a small business concern. In addition, the company, which is the oldest black-owned firm in the District of Columbia, has maintained a good business reputation.

I wish to express my concern over the possible disbarment of Greenwood's Transfer and Storage as a bidder on Federal contracts and respectfully request that you exercise your discretion in deciding this case on its merits.

HEARINGS ON D.C. PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Councilmember Julius W. Hobson, Chairman of the Committee on Education, Recreation, and Youth Affairs will hold a series of hearings to identify issues which impact on the successful administration of the public school system and quality education, pursuant to Council Act 1-13, enacted on May 6, 1975.

Public testimony is solicited on management/administrative issues in the public schools, problems which inhibit the academic achievement of students such as truancy, or any other questions which citizens feel that the Committee should consider. Later hearings will focus on specific issues to be identified through this initial public forum; expert testimony in these later hearings will be the basis for the development of legislative proposals designed to enhance quality public education.

A preliminary hearing will be held on May 23, 1975 at 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. in Room 500, Council Chambers, District Building, 14th & E Sts., N.W., Washington, D.C. Persons wishing to testify should call Ms. Alice Blue at 638-2223 before 5 p.m. on May 22, 1975.

HOBSON ENDORSES THE MAY 17 MARCH ON BOSTON

Councilmember Julius W. Hobson announces his support for the May 17th march on Boston in support of school desegregation there. Sponsored by the NAACP nationally and locally by the D.C. Area Student Coalition Against Racism, the march seeks to dramatize the existence of de facto segregation in Boston's public schools and bring about its end.

"Separate but equal educational facilities are inherently unequal," declared Mr. Hobson. "It is significant that the march will take place on the 21st anniversary of the Brown versus the Board of Education decision of the Supreme Court. I endorse both the principle and purpose of the May 17th march on Boston to bring about equal educational opportunities for all."

Good judgment does not always equate with good health -- as has been evident in city affairs recently. My health permits me to handle the full responsibilities of Chairman of the Committee on Education, Recreation and Youth Affairs and I ask that you not discriminate towards this Committee by:

1. Directing all questions from the press or media on Committee business or policy to the Chairman.

2. Assuring that all meetings of the Committee are called either by the Committee Chairman or by the Committee Chairman at the request of Committee members. Meetings of this Committee should never be called or conducted by the D.C. Council Chairman.

3. Forwarding proposed legislation (from D.C. Government) relating to educational and youth matters directly to the Committee for consideration. Such legislation should not be introduced prior to a Committee review.

4. Sending all directions or requests for information to Committee work through the Chairman's office before any discussion with the Committee Clerk or staff.

Mrs. Virginia Morris, President
District of Columbia Board of Education
The Presidential Building

Washington, D.C. 20004

Dear Mrs. Morris:

You are requested to attend a meeting of the Committee on Education, Recreation, and Youth Affairs, Thursday, May 8, 1975 at 10:30 a.m., in Room 501, District Building, 14th and E Streets, N.W., Washington, D.C. We are hopeful that you can clarify the current situation and brief the Committee on the Board's actions. It is critical that the Committee on Education, Recreation, and Youth Affairs be fully informed concerning the evaluation of the Superintendent and other pertinent matters, so that the Committee can carry out its charge in an intelligent manner.

Ms. Barbara Sizemore
Superintendent of Schools
District of Columbia Public Schools
415 12th Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004

Dear Ms. Sizemore:

It has been brought to my attention that Mr. Leroy Jordan, 6907 8th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C., has been attempting to get a tuition grant to pay for the education of his son, Joseph Jordan, who is currently attending the Psychiatric Institute. Mr. Jordan has informed me that he has been trying, to no avail, to ascertain information concerning the processing of a tuition grant for his son; he has further stated that he has been paying the full cost of his son's tuition since October 1974, at a monthly rate of $450.00.

I further understand that Mr. Jordan has spoken with Dr. Doris Woodson, of the Department of Special Education, who informed him that his child should be returned to the regular public school program. Has any evaluation of Joseph Jordan been performed by public school personnel? Has there been a hearing of possible placements for Joseph?

Several persons have indicated that there are a large number of students in similar traits. Can you estimate the number of claims for tuition which are not currently being processed by the public schools? Please include those persons who may not have followed all stated procedures. What steps are taken by the District of Columbia Public Schools to assure that parents receive full information concerning steps to be taken to facilitate processing of tuition grant claims? Please advise me of the status of Joseph Jordan's tuition grant. If there are any procedures that Mr. Jordan should follow to expedite the grant, provide the details necessary to accomplish the grant award with dispatch.

I would expect that the Department of Special Education will move with all speed to ameliorate this problem and provide all support necessary to assure that it is resolved in a manner satisfactory to all parties, especially Mr. Jordan. Because of the urgent nature of this problem and the severe economic hardship which this situation causes the Jordan family, a response to these questions is requested by the close of business Friday, May 9, 1975.

Sincerely,

JULIUS W. HOBSON
Councilmember-at-large

Mr. Matthew Watson
Auditor
Office of the District of Columbia Auditor
Room 936 - The Munsey Building
1329 E Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004

Dear Mr. Watson:

Because of citizen concern I want to make sure that there are no irregularities with the initial contractual arrangements concerning the National Center for Resource Recovery's contract to develop a resource recovery system prior to the elected City Council's term in office.

A number of issues and questions have arisen concerning the initial contract signed by the National Center for Resource Recovery, Inc. (NCRR) in 1974. Specifically:

- Was the initial request for a design for a solid waste system proposal competitive? Who submitted proposals and on what basis?

- Was NCRR permitted to review the proposals for a resource recovery system? If so, was this ethical?

- Did the District of Columbia provide for open bidding in the development of a resource recovery system as other communities have done? If this was not the case, why?

- Were resource recovery systems other than a 650 ton per day type, which was contracted as a sole source by NCRR, considered?

I am requesting that your office initiate an audit of the procedures used in awarding the contract to the NCRR to develop a resource recovery system to be built at Lorton, Virginia. It is important to assure citizens that the initial request for proposal was both ethical and legal.

Sincerely,

Julius W. Hobson

Dear Mr. Schieber:

Tina Hobson asked me to forward to you copies of letters sent by Councilmember Julius W. Hobson to Mr. Frank Zarb of the Federal Energy Administration and Mr. Russell Train of the Environmental Protective Agency requesting that their organization examine the resource recovery system which has been proposed for the District of Columbia.

Also enclosed is a copy of a letter sent to Mr. Matthew Watson, Auditor for the District of Columbia requesting him to audit the initial contract arrangements made with the National Center for Resource Recovery, as well as other materials which may be of interest to you concerning the proposed resource recovery facilities at Lorton, Virginia.

Sincerely,

PAUL SANDERS BROWN

Resource Recovery System

In our approval of the Mayor's request for $9.6 million for a D.C. resource recovery facility, we directed the Mayor not to proceed with the National Center for Resource Recovery (NCRR) project for 90 days to permit a further review of what the taxpayer would get for dollars spent.

I plan to consult with EPA and FEA in evaluating the proposed system. Because of serious questions raised by citizens, I also plan to ask for a financial audit of the NCRR feasibility study since it was authorized under a sole source contract prior to an elected D.C. government.

The attached testimony was presented by Roger Sant, FEA's chief for Conservation and Environment. I am providing you with the section related to solid waste management systems since it provides many new facts. This is a complex area and we all need to educate ourselves so that our final decision will be in the community's interest.

STATEMENT BY JULIUS W. HOBSON FOR THE PRESS CONFERENCE SPONSORED BY NEW LIFE, INC.

Good Afternoon:

Close to 15% of all Americans have some permanent physical disability. Handicapped citizens make valuable contributions to the life in the District and play a significant role in the City's economy.

Most buildings and facilities used by the general public cause great difficulty for the physically handicapped because they fail to provide proper access and use. Architectural barriers hinder those who are disabled from becoming involved in the ordinary endeavors of education, employment, and recreation.

Because of this situation, I am in the process of drafting legislation which I will introduce in the City Council amending the District's building code. The bill would eliminate architectural barriers, such as narrow doorways and elevator buttons too high to reach, which impede persons in wheelchairs and others with physical handicaps from getting around in public.

The bill would require such features as accesses free of steps to a main entrance, restrooms with at least one stall accessible to a person in a wheelchair, and sidewalks that blend to a common level with driveways, parking lots, and other sidewalks to be included in all new buildings and all major reconstruction of existing buildings used by the public.

Dear Mr. Kalish:

I have been contacted by Mrs. Ruth Rucker, Director of the Washington, D.C. Parent Child Center concerning their proposal for a grant to fund a feasibility Study for the Mary McLeod Bethune Parent and Child Institute.

The Parent Child Center has a record of demonstrated effectiveness in the Washington Community. I feel that their receipt of such a planning grant would enhance the development of their program, which would have a direct impact on the quality of child care and parent involvement in the learning process. I would appreciate information from your organization as to the status of their grant application and rationale for any contemplated action.

Sincerely,

Mr. Matthew Watson
Auditor
Office of the District of Columbia Auditor
Room 936 - The Munsey Building
1329 E Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004

Dear Mr. Watson:

Because of citizen concern I want to make sure that there are no irregularities with the initial contractual arrangements concerning the National Center for Resource Recovery's contract to develop a resource recovery system prior to the elected City Council's term in office.

A number of issues and questions have arisen concerning the initial contract signed by the National Center for Resource Recovery, Inc. (NCRR) in 1974. Specifically:

- Was the initial request for a design for a solid waste system proposal competitive? Who submitted proposals and on what basis?

- Was NCRR permitted to review the proposals for a resource recovery system? If so, was this ethical?

- Did the District of Columbia provide for open bidding in the development of a resource recovery system as other communities have done? If this was not the case, why?

- Were resource recovery systems other than a 650 ton per day type, which was contracted as a sole source by NCRR, considered?

I am requesting that your office initiate an audit of the procedures used in awarding the contract to the NCRR to develop a resource recovery system to be built at Lorton, Virginia. It is important to assure citizens that the initial request for proposal was both ethical and legal.

Sincerely,

Julian W. Nelson

The Honorable Frank G. Zarb
Administrator
Federal Energy Administration
1200 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004

Dear Mr. Zarb:

Enclosed is a copy of the Draft Resource Recovery Engineering and Economic Feasibility Study which the National Center for Resource Recovery, Inc. (NCRR) submitted to the Metropolitan Washington Waste Management Agency in January 1975.

The FY 1976 Budget for Washington, D.C. calls for $9.6 million to be allocated for the construction and design of a resource recovery facility, located at Lorton, Virginia, described in the NCRR's feasibility study.

Due to the time constraints placed on the newly elected City Council of the District of Columbia in its budgetary deliberations, there was very little time to consider the full issue carefully. A number of questions were raised concerning the proposed resource recovery facility including:

- Is the system presented in the NCRR's feasibility study the most up-to-date in terms of the energy recovery technology now available? In the three years since the District requested proposals to study resource recovery systems, the technology has blossomed.

- The resource recovery system presented in the NCRR feasibility study appears to be the type being built for the city of New Orleans which has proven economically incompatible with returnable beverage container legislation. Does the returnable beverage container legislation save energy?

- What other types of resource recovery facilities presently being marketed are compatible with beverage container legislation and would be more cost effective?

Accordingly the City Council in its approval of the $9.6 million for the resource recovery facility amended the Mayor's request to provide that the Executive (through the Department of Environmental Services) work with the City Council to examine other resource recovery systems. The amendment further stated that the Mayor was not to proceed with the project for 90 days in order to allow both the Council and the Executive to confer with the Federal Energy Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency on new resource recovery systems being developed.

As a member of the City Council and the Transportation and Environmental Affairs Committee, I am requesting that your agency review the resource recovery system presently being proposed and provide technical assistance in reviewing all the energy resource recovery systems being marketed or built today and recommend the most cost-effective system that is totally compatible with beverage container legislation.

Specifically I would like your agency to address the issue of whether the District of Columbia should place more emphasis on energy recovery in view of the critical shortages in this area. According to Mr. Roger W. Sant, the Assistant Administrator for the Energy Conservation section of the FEA, in his testimony made before the House Subcommittee on Transportation and Commerce on April 15, 1975, the refuse derived fuel portion of a plant recovering both energy and materials provides up to two-thirds of its revenue. He also indicated that as much as 90 percent of the energy saved is associated with the fuel fraction. We feel that perhaps the District should stress energy recovery in its solid waste management program.

It is my understanding that the FEA is participating with the Environmental Protection Agency and the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) in a study examining the feasibility of adapting one or more of the TVA's steam plants to accept prepared refuse as a supplemental fuel. Should the Tennessee Valley Authority, the largest steam utility in the country, adopt this practice, it would encourage other large utilities to follow. We feel that the results of this study could have a profound effect on the direction the District should take in managing its solid waste.

We want a system that takes into account all aspects of solid waste management, one which is totally compatible with source reduction.

I would welcome FEA's technical assistance in this matter and would appreciate your designating a specialist in the area of solid waste systems to work closely with us in exploring the potentials for energy recovery.

Sincerely,

Julius W. Hobson
